Central—Center of Life

Central's one hundred seventh birthday brings with it a flood of mixed emotions for those who have spent a portion of their lives within its walls. The Fort Wayne Community Schools has declared that the oldest high school in Fort Wayne shall become a vocational training center in 1971.

School spirit and traditions will be dissolved at the Lewis and Barr Street structure, and dealt out to the institution's offspring throughout the city. Ties will be broken to form even stronger bonds elsewhere. The name of Central High School will be history, alive only in memories, memories of triumphs and achievements, memories of the lean years as well as the fat ones. But, these memories will be good ones because 827 students and staff members are working to make her present glorious.

Another school day is completed. Central students pause on the school steps before their long walks home.

Violating the school policy to stay off the lawn, Jackie Pearson adds to the attractiveness of the floral CHS.

Loveless Maydwell, Linda Yorgey, and Mary Perez, find the solitude of the Cathedral a perfect place for meditation.

Filling out and checking over invoices, Alice Castor fulfills one of her various jobs at Wolf and Dessauer's.

Diamonds are a girl's best friend. Many teachers like Mrs. Banks sported diamonds for the first time this year.

Youth—Core of Life's Circle

City parks like Hanna Homestead are the scenes for many out-of-season basketball games during lazy summer afternoons. Here Ira Johnson takes a jump shot past Terry Jackson as the other vacation-time players await the rebound.

Birth, then adolescence, then youth, and then manhood: the cycle of humanity, a heritage of each generation. Youth is an integral link in the chain of mankind, the foundation of the new frontier, the center of life's activity. It is during youth we shed our adolescence and don our shell of manhood. Our minds are probed; we wonder what will be and we aspire to become. It is then that we begin to mature—to develop our destiny. It is also then that education becomes the means to our end and the heart of our existence—a heart that beats within the halls of Central, the Center of Our Lives.

Work—Changing Juveniles

Often a part-time job affords students the opportunity to learn on expensive office equipment not available in the school. Ora Jean Blunt uses the Xerox machine as a regular part of her work at the Fort Wayne Chamber of Commerce.

The disc jockey's job is not an easy one, as Larry Whitt discovers on the job at WOWO. Obtained through Central's industrial cooperative program, this work has given Larry the chance to decide whether or not the field of radio technology would interest him as permanent work.

Before they have received their high school diplomas, many students are already involved in the world of work. They have discovered, early, the responsibilities, the hardships, and the rewards of the business world. They have regulated their lives to cope with the many problems of working as well as the duties of school.

The business world has shaped the lives of Central students and has given them an idea of what lies ahead on the road to the future. They have discovered a new aspect of life in which they find a new feeling of fulfillment in return for their labors. The experiencing of a sweating brow or a calloused hand has transformed many a care-free and immature sophomore into a responsible young adult.

Also employed at WOWO, Ernestine Hicks sees the behind the scenes jobs at a radio station as she works with taped advertisements used by the disc jockeys.

Putting the business skills she learned at school to good use, Brenda Beachem works in the Allen County Courthouse.

Dianne Tharp finds that her job becomes more enjoyable when she takes time to get to know her fellow employees at Wolf and Dessauer's.

Deciding what to do on their date, Carolyn McCoy and Coleridge Brewer look over the bill board at the Embassy Theatre.

Dating—Learn about Love

When boy meets girl, an emotion may develop between them that neither the bustle of a busy school day nor demanding hours of employment can quell. At the ringing of the final bell signaling the dismissal of school, the young couple meet to enjoy the pleasures of being young.

Modern dating finds many forms, from noisy, psychedelic dancing hall, to a restful evening at home watching television. Yet, whatever extremes a date may take, an evening of companionship, of fun and entertainment, exists only for those young at heart.

The relaxed atmosphere of a date fosters a special affection which the two young people find uniquely pleasant. This affection is the feeling that is universally known as love, a feeling as ancient as civilization itself, yet, a feeling that is being rediscovered each day. This is the feeling which everyone dreams that one day they will discover.

A date takes many faces. Even a trip to Murphy's candy counter can be fun—at least for people like Anita Colland. Roy Kirk, however, seems to feel his date's taste is a little expensive.

Larry Wimes and Elizabeth Ingol pause during their study date to watch the fountain at the public library.

Touring and studying in Greece, Jim Pavlou and fellow students discover much about the homeland of their parents.

Winston Wright spends some of his summer free time participating in various activities, including ping pong, at the Metropolitan YMCA. Other "Y" offerings include swimming, gymnastics, squash, handball, and weight lifting.

Like other student publication workers from all over Indiana, Craig Ellis studies at a journalism workshop at Ball State.

Nothing hits the spot on a hot summer afternoon better than an ice cold coke. Marilyn Word and Paula Betties find a quiet corner in Mr. Lucky's to catch up on all the summer gossip and fill up on french fries and soft drinks.

Summer—Scatters Learning

Summer found Centralites literally scattered throughout the world. Some traveled for pleasure; others, mainly for academic purposes. Whatever the reason, the trips provided an education, whether to a college campus, another country, or a tourist attraction.

Part-time jobs kept a large number of students in Fort Wayne to spend their summer in the city. Even home was more enjoyable, though, without bustle of classes and the worry of homework on off hours.

Casual and carefree or hot and hectic, thoughts of summertime activities kept many a Centralite warm through the long, cold winter.

Gail Rice and her mother, Mrs. Carroll, spend several hours a week on their sewing projects.

Spending a quiet evening at home by herself, Diana LaFever relaxes by listening to some of her favorite records.

Home—A Tranquility Base

Home is tranquility base. It is the nest where one finds peace. It is the base from which one can venture out into the unknown; then, safely return to its confines.

Home is a haven behind the lines, free from the cannonading guns of a demanding society. Home is the resting place where little fears and unpleasant memories can be forgotten. Home is the center where cruel wounds and hurts of battle to with the patience of those who care.

Home is where love and intimate friendships are spawned. Home is where the fond memories of one's life are stored. Home is the leeward shelter whose face is turned from the blast of the biting wind. Home is the birthplace of one's heart and one's dream.

Brothers always fight, but sometimes the fighting is in fun. Leonard Manus and his brother Stevie have a regular scuffle as part of their daily routine.

Finding time each day to dine together is a problem in any active home, but Sue Taylor, her mother, and her father think the family feeling at the dinner table is worth the additional effort.

Churches provide more than just a location for Sunday services. Alma Chapman leaves Pilgrim Baptist after a weekly youth meeting.

Michele Cade and Robert Taylor listen from the choir loft as Robert's father plays the organ in the Sunday morning church service.

Luella Lovell prays with many other Americans that she may someday live in a world of peace and harmony.

Belief—For Peace of Mind

We hope that one day man may live in a world in which he has conquered the hunger and illness which has plagued his race for generations. We hope that one day man may live in peace.

We have always hoped for that which seems impossible. We have wished, because we believe that we will receive the aid we ask for in return for our following.

The right held most dear to Americans is the right to worship. Whether this takes place in the synagogue, mosque, chapel, or in the privacy of one's heart, prayer and meditation contribute an essential part to one's daily life.

Believing that the many wishes man has expressed throughout the ages will be answered may be just the thrust that is needed to overcome the pressures of modern-day living.

Personal devotion and meditation give some students a break in their hectic lives to contemplate the past, present, and future. Craig Ellis spends a few minutes alone reading the Bible and thinking about who he really is and what he will do.

"I wonder if someday I'll be a prom queen," crown bearer Lisa Hardey seems to think as she watches Jennifer Brooks, 1968 Junior Prom Queen, crown Queen Tina Kirk. Bridget Cannaday, one of the fourteen prom

A bubbling fountain, the center of attention at the dance, is admired by Linda Mack, Eugene Evans, Vernita Early, and Dan Stevens. The fountain provided the theme, "Fountain Fantasia," and was appropriately located in the center of the dance floor.

For those seeking a place to pause, the cafe offered many like James Bright and Linda Irvin the perfect setting.

Jrs. Gave Fountain Fantasia

Lisa, Tina, and Jennifer (center) pose with the prom court: E. Adams, O. Blunt, G. Bopp, J. Pearson, G. Rice, E. Jenkins, B. Cannaday, S. Peterson, J. Brown, M. Macon, G. Wheeler, J. Hoskins, L. Scheidler, and S. Coats.

One night during the year Central went strictly black tie. On that evening the cafeteria was transformed into a romantic garden, complete with a babbling fountain. For a few hours, those who entered were not students, but guests of the junior class at the 1969 Prom, Saturday, May 3.

The presentation of Queen Tina Kirk and her court of fourteen highlighted the evening. After Tina's coronation by the 1968 Prom Queen, Jennifer Brooks; the president of the junior class, Mark Reed, cut in for his traditional dance.

With the arrival of the bewitching hour, the pace picked up and the atmosphere became more casual with the Fabulations providing the background beat at the after prom party. With not a sign of fatigue—other than an occasional yawn—the group proceeded from Hobby House North to individual parties, breakfasts, and picnics.

Monday found rumpled dinner jackets, wilted corsages, and soiled satin shoes; but no one remembers Monday.

Ronald Barnes escorts Frankie Gatewood, a sectional court member, to the platform.

Coach Dille crowns Shirley Coats 1970 Sectional Queen, as Cardell Collins watches.

Sec. Two Was BEAUTIFUL

Beginning the first step of the Tiger's quest for the Indiana Basketball Tournament Championship was the Sectional Pep Session held in the Central gymnasium on February 28.

Presiding over the assembly was the 1970 Sectional Queen, Shirley Coats. The Sectional Court included Frankie Gatewood, Vadie Allison, Debbie Joyner, and Erma Adams. The queen and the members of her court were nominated by the basketball team, then selected by a vote of the student body. The final choice was made by the Student Council.

In addition to the crowning of the queen, retiring Assistant Principal Miss Emma Adams was presented a gift of appreciation.

Seniors boost one of their classmates to capture the regional victory balloons.

The drummer playing with the Indiana State University Band sends the students wild as he plays one of his solos.

Bobby Stevens, one of the soul dancers of the "Checkmates Limited," is grovin' to the tune "Up Tight."

Music Proved Popular

Two of the most popular assemblies held this year at Central were musical ones. Thanks to Mr. Howe and the Central alumni in the group, the nationally famous "Checkmates Limited" paid a surprise visit to their alma mater. The boys' gym really rocked to the soul sounds of Bobby, Sonny, Bobby, Bill, and Harvey. The Checkmates have been frequently televised on such programs as the Ed Sullivan Show, the Tonight Show, and the Hollywood Palace, in addition to cutting their own records.

Bringing a different brand of music to Central was the Indiana High School Band. The group of collegians traveled to high schools all over the state. Students particularly enjoyed the drum and marimba solos as the group presented their program in the auditorium. The assembly was intended especially for the music students at school.

Marvin Smith, better known as "Sweet Louie," sings "Whose Makin Love." He not only sings, but he is also the regular drummer.

A member of the Indiana State Band plays a flute solo during the groups visit to Central.

"Good luck, team, good luck!" are the words of the sophomores encouraging the Tigers.

CHS Primed for Regional

The second step of the Tigers quest for the 1970 Indiana Basketball State Championship began with the Regional Pep Session held in the Central gym March 6: Cheerleaders from the six other schools who participated in Sectional Tourney Two and two additional junior highs were present to cheer the Tigers on. The schools represented were Concordia, Bishop Luers, Heritage, Bishop Dwenger, South Side, Leo, Memorial Park and Farfield.

The featured speaker for the session was Superintendent of the Fort Wayne Community Schools, Mr. Lester Grile. He commended the school for its display of spirit and wished the team good luck.

The climax of the assembly came with the introduction of the traditional Central tournament chant: "Indiana, Indiana, can't you see, Tigers gonna take it in seventy."

B. Dwenger cheerleaders are among the representatives present from eight other schools.

School superintendent Grile finds time to wish the Tigers well against the Lakers.

"Indiana, Indiana, can't you see; Tigers gonna take it in 70," is the chant this year.

109 Students Recognized

Those who attended the Central High School Recognition Day of the 1968-69 school year saw fellow students receiving 109 awards in various areas of high school. Included among these awards were 27 grant-in-aids to graduating seniors who were planning to attend college. Chosen as best boy and girl citizen of the 1968-1969 senior class were Alfred Lapsly and Wendy Sanders. On Recognition Day, the last day that seniors attend school, all students were able to see the seniors and the other students receive awards for their efforts throughout the school year. The students also were able to see the seniors in the splendor of their caps and gowns. The knowledge of this special day, gave each underclassmen the incentive to work harder.

Faces suddenly solemn, the class of 1969 files quietly into the boys' gymnasium filled with proud friends and relatives. At the head of the procession are student council president Ella Jones and vice-president

Mary Trigg. Beside them are four year honor students, not including the valedictorian and salutatorian.

Graduates Began New Life

The dawn of a new life begins with the competition of high school. For many of Central's 216 graduates, graduation day meant proceeding with long awaited plans of marriage. Others entered various fields of employment. Some found that their paths led to colleges or universities.

Dr. John Porter, featured speaker at the commencement ceremony, reminded the class that wherever their paths led they would have to uphold much tradition and honor as they journeyed into the twenty-first century. Leading their class on their trip through high school days were Patti Bienz, valedictorian; and Vera Scruggs, salutatorian.

The standing-room-only crowd is suddenly hushed as graduates, faculty, and guests listen to a choral presentation.

Central— The Center Of Studies

Central was the center of learning,
Around which our intellects flourished.
It was a place for hitting the books,
Discussing our conflicting points of view,
Increasing our understanding,
And adding stock to our mental warehouse.

We struggled through tests,
Smiled with achievements,
And wept with frustrations.

Sometimes we filled wastebaskets with crumpled failures;

We nearly gave up.

Then we dissected the worth of knowledge,

We figured the probability of our success without it.

Only then had we succeeded—

We had learned the value of learning.

Lloyd Weber—U.S. History; government; BS, Wittenberg; MS, Indiana.

Robert Dille—U.S. History; BS, Valparaiso.

Kip Ormerod—World history; sociology; BS, Citadel.

Howard Schneider—Sociology; economics; world history; BS, Valparaiso; MS, Indiana.

Social Studies

U.S. Affairs

Social studies courses lend themselves to lectures and informal discussions. Here United States History teacher, Mr. Schneider, makes his point on the American Revolution while his third period students busily take notes.

Many of the problems of today revolve around our economics system, therefore, all seniors are required to take on semester of economics. Shirley Coats and Charles Jordan get ready to debate with Mr. Schneider in fourth period econ class as to whether or not the consumers prices will increase or decrease in the following year, and what will happen in each case.

Made Social Studies More Relevant

As the United States becomes more entangled in world affairs, the people of this country must become informed about the current happenings as well as the history and social problems of other parts of the world around us.

The social studies department at Central attempted to inform each student about the United States current standing in foreign and domestic affairs, including the many complicated problems that the Viet Nam conflict has aroused for the states.

The sociology room was lined with many colorful social commentaries in the form of collages. Government classes were visited by Representative John F. Sinks, who tried to interpret some of the terms of our government today.

A new addition to the department was Mr. Lloyd Weber, department head, and Mr. Donald Hines, government teacher. Mr. Weber, former teacher at Elmhurst High School, taught U.S. History and government.

Science:

Class in Botany Enlarged Central's

During the unit on the lowest form of animal life in Mr. Levy's biology class, Violet Garland observes the flagella-like movement of the amoeba and the conjugation of the paramecium.

In second period earth science class, Mr. Stephen Flohr contemplates a difficult question about the complications of the earth's inner layers, during question and answer period.

Donned in safety glasses, Sue Taylor experiments in Mr. Richardville's chemistry class to determine the amount of kilocalories necessary to evaporate one liter of a molar solution of water.

Science Curriculum

Botany, the study of plant life, was added to the science curriculum this year. Mr. Richard Levy, head of the science department, taught the course along with zoology and biology. Microscopes received a regular workout in these classes. Students learned about various forms of animal life by dissecting the many different forms, ranging from the earthworm to the more complicated fetal pig.

Mr. Richardville's chemistry and physics classes spent much of their time working in the laboratories where they examined chemical reactions, and physical principles.

Earth science, taught by Mr. McCory, took on new interest with the geological discoveries this past year of lunar landings and moon walks.

An addition to the staff of the increasingly popular science department was Mr. Stephen Flohr, who taught both earth science, and biology.

Bernard Richardville—General math; physics; chemistry, BS, Vincennes, MA, Ball State.

John McCory—Earth science; BS and MS, Ball State.

Stephen Flohr—Earth science; biology; BS, Purdue.

"Let's see . . . behind the liver, in front of the kidneys . . . where is it?" Jackie Johnson hunts for the spleen as she dissects a frog in one of her zoology lab projects.

Supervised study periods are especially helpful in mathematics courses. Here Mr. Dornte gives assistance to one of his second period geometry students, Mike Conrad, as he has trouble working a problem with the Pythagorean Theorem.

Math

Math, the Basis of Science, Taught

A fourth-year mathematics student, Duane Donahue, gives diligent concentration to his trigonometry assignment in Miss Plumann's third period advanced trig class.

Mr. Dornte writes the given of an equation to prove various corollaries, postulates, and theorems for the daily assignment. Third period geometry students attentively look on as they grade each others papers.

Thoroughly

It was once stated by a famous contemporary scientist, that if it were not for math, all fields of science would be thrown back a period of one week, the week that God created the earth. As the world becomes more scientific-minded the importance of mathematics in our life has been more greatly emphasized than ever before.

Many mathematics courses were offered to Central students. Among those offered were general math, and business math, for general course; and algebra, geometry, advanced algebra, trigonometry, and analytic geometry, for those in the more advanced math course. Two years of the advanced math courses are required to enter most colleges.

The teachers in the math department were Miss Leona Plummanns, department head, Mr. Robert Dornte, and Mr. Bernard Richardville.

During her second period English class, Mrs. Rahmer hands back, and explains the grades on, last week's compositions.

James McFadden—Speech; English; BA, Manchester; MS, Indiana.

Judith Boyd—Journalism; BA, Hanover.

Irene Rahmer—English; BA, Manchester; MA, Columbia.

F. Wayne Brown—English; BA, Michigan.

Donald Hines—Speech and government; Ball State.

Daniel Howe—English; BS, Ball State; MS, St. Francis.

Delmar Proctor Jr.—English; drama; BS, Indiana.

Bernice Roberts—English; BA, Stillman.

Madeline Thompson—English; BA, St. Mary's.

Irving Weinstein—Librarian; BS, Carnegie Tech.

Shirley Williams—Reading improvement; BS, Indiana.

English Very Important in Age of Communication Gap

With the communication gap attributed with most of the world's problems, today the English department with its goal of instructing students in the fundamentals of effective spoken and written communication becomes increasingly important.

Sophomore and junior grammar ranged from the simple diagramming of subject and predicate, to the complex subordinate clause. In the literature field they were required to read MY ANTONIA, JULIUS CAESAR, ROMEO AND JULIET, MACBETH, and many contemporary novels. The library was usually filled with English students busily checking out books.

The biggest project for the seniors was the second semester term paper, which was designed to acquaint the student with the proper form of writing. Most of the term papers concerned themselves with the works of English authors and episodes in their lives that may have influenced their work.

There were two new English teachers added to the staff this year. They were Mrs. Bernice Roberts, and Miss Nancy Mack. The English department was headed by Mr. James McFadden.

Diana LeFever takes advantage of the reading improvement equipment to improve in speed reading.

As they work on their term papers, Craig Ellis, Carol Gribbler, and Roberta Adams listen to Mrs. Thompson's instructions on the card file.

Journalism, Speech, Drama Enlarged

Journalism class took a new twist this year by taking over the advertising department of the spotlight. Among their many activities they toured the Journal Gazette and News Sentinel building during National Newspaper Week, October 5-11.

The speech department was doubled this year with a new addition to the staff, Mr. Donald Hines. Increased student participation in speech contests brought home ribbons and team trophies. Participants recalled many early Saturday morning departures for competition throughout the state.

Mr. Procter's drama students were busy participating in classroom plays and pantomimes, they also provided the casts for both plays, and the skits for the pep sessions.

Third period beginning speech student, Carol Ayers, learns the fundamentals of proper speaking to an audience.

Beginning a lecture in speech class, Mr. McFadden, points out the importance of correct enunciation in public speaking.

Curriculum

Mr. McFadden's sixth period English class listens to student teacher, Miss Hardy, who is now discussing, "My Antonia." Sheri Oswald looks up momentarily to ponder the question, "What would 'My Antonia' be like if made into a movie?"

Mr. Robert Heintzelman, a guest speaker in the journalism class, discusses the elements of newspaper style with the students.

Industrial Arts:

Industrial

The sound of buzzing saws, the drone of working machinery, and the purr of overhauled automobile engines drifted upward from the basement of this school. These were some of the sounds which were an integral part of the most completely equipped industrial arts department in the Community School system.

The purpose of the industrial arts department was to prepare young men for a future as mechanics, draftsmen, and machine operators. In classes, these students were given an opportunity to become familiar with all the aspects of complicated machinery while others were taught the fundamentals of drafting.

Those who were involved in the department this year were Mr. Todd, department head; Mr. O'Brien; Mr. Rian; Mr. Yager; Mr. Surber; and a new drafting and electric shop teacher Mr. Ruddick.

Second year machine shop student, Mitchell Rice, studies the procedure on the metal lathe in Mr. Yager's second period class. Dozens of costly machines like this and other equipment are available for student training in Central's industrial arts department.

Central's industrial arts department has the best equipment in the City. Roger Cade takes advantage of the equipment in Mr. Yager's metal shop, while he drills a hole in his paper weight.

The industrial arts department has opened many doors for Central graduates. Seniors Louis Simmons and Gerald Sanders shape their futures as well as stud bolts on the shaper in machine shop.

Skills Learned in Well-Equipped Shops

Protected by a face mask and coveralls, one of Mr. O'Briens shop students practices the techniques of proper welding.

Calvin Jones watches as Mr. Piepenbrink checks on of his projects in second period wood shop.

Marvin Todd—Drafting; BS, and MS, Indiana.

Paul Piepenbrink—Industrial training; drafting; electricity; BS and MA, Ball State.

Richard Rian—Woodworking; BS, Ball State; MS, St. Francis.

David Ruddick—Drafting; electricity; BS, Ball State.

George Surber—Auto mechanics; BS, Indiana.

Kenneth Yager—Machine shop; BS, and MS, Bradley.

Art:

Art Students Saw Pottery Thrown

For those students with the artistic talents, Central offered many courses in beginning and advanced art. Beginning art students were taught the fundamentals of still life, clay modeling, picture weaving, and charcoal portraits; while the advanced students worked with pottery and clay sculpturing.

During the first semester, Mr. Clyde Burt, of the Fort Wayne Art Institute, attended art classes to demonstrate some of his paintings and the art of throwing pottery.

Head of the department was Mrs. Wadlington who taught second and third year art. New additions to the staff were: Mrs. Buford, who taught first year art, and part-time teacher Miss Shake. Miss Shake also taught at Weisser Park Junior High School.

Mr. Clyde Burt, former teacher of Mrs. Wadlington, demonstrates the technique for making pottery during second period.

Carolyn Wadlington—
Art; BA and MA, St.
Francis.

Marjorie Buford—Art;
BA, Virginia.

With needle in hand, Gail Wheeler carefully finishes weaving her art project in Mrs. Wadlington's third period advanced art class.

Eating food is a pleasure, especially after you cook it yourself. These six male students who are in Miss Durfey's second period Foods class, are taught about the different kinds of foods, how to cook it, and of course the possible way to eat it.

Ruth Wagner is preparing to put the final touches on her homemade peanut butter cookies, during fifth period foods class.

Home Economics:

Cooking Was Especially Popular Among Students

While changing classes, one often caught the scent of fresh cookies, chocolate cake, and hot cinnamon rolls. Home economics rooms were filled with the newest models of kitchen appliances, and sewing machines, which enabled students to learn the basic and advanced skills in cooking and sewing.

In addition, classes in family living and home management, which discussed the problems of the everyday family, were offered.

Sewing and family living classes were taught by Mrs. Hewes, department head; and foods and home management by Miss Durfey.

Natalie Hewes—Family living; sewing; home nursing; BS, Purdue.

Darlene Durfey—Foods; home management; BS, Purdue.

Students Learned of Free Enterprise

The institution of free enterprise is being encouraged by the business department at Central High School. The purpose of this department is to instruct students in the rudiments of the business world.

Several special business programs were designed to familiarize the student with the business world. DECA, Distributive Education Clubs of America, gave each student a position of employment in various Fort Wayne businesses.

COE, Cooperative Office Education, placed students in office jobs, and in school training. COE students were taught to operate various office machines and equipment. Students applied their office skills and new knowledge in their various jobs.

Besides the many special business courses, there were the usual shorthand, typing, general business, clerical practice, retailing, bookkeeping, business math, and consumer education.

Head of the business department was Mr. Dellinger, who taught consumer education. Other members of the department, were business consultant Mrs. Sharon Banks, Mr. Barrie Peterson, Mr. Larry Fosler, Mr. Leland Johnson, Mr. Byron Doerffler, Mrs. Leslie Sawin, and a new addition to the business department, Miss Janet Hawley.

To get a good secretarial job students are required to take at least one year of shorthand; these second year shorthand students are learning the advanced techniques in Mrs. Sawin's third period shorthand class. They are preparing themselves for a good future job.

Robert Dellinger—Consumer education; BS, Pennsylvania; MBA, Indiana.

Bryan Doerffler—Typing; BA, Valparaiso; MA, Ball State.

Larry Fosler—Distributive education, retailing, sales; BS and MS, Indiana.

Janet Hawley—Typing, general business; BS, Ball State.

Leland Johnson—Bookkeeping; BS, Indiana.

Barrie Peterson—Business office, clerical practice; BA, Augustana; MA, St. Francis.

Leslie Sawin—Typing, shorthand; BS, Ball State.

These students are working diligently on an assignment which will have to be turned in at the end of the period. This is accomplished by keeping one's eyes on the book and fingers on the keys. These students are part of Mr. Doerffler's third period typing class.

Council on Fitness Here in November

Members of Mr. Eviston's third period physical education class warm up with a basketball scrimmage.

Since the population of the adolescents and young adults has increased, there has been a great emphasis on the importance of physical fitness. Students were urged to participate in daily exercises and vigorous sports.

During the month of November, the Presidents Council on Physical Fitness put on an exhibition in the boys gym for those members of the Council.

Among those participants were several members of the 1968 U.S. Olympic gymnastic team and many students from high schools in Fort Wayne and all over Northern Indiana.

Central's gyms were also busy places for sophomores required to take two semesters of physical education. Boys and girls participated in basketball, volleyball, softball, and tumbling.

Boys physical education classes were taught by Mr. Warren Eviston. The boys first indulged in a routine of push-ups, sit-ups, and jumping-jacks, after which they divided into teams to play volleyball, basketball, flag football, softball, and run relays.

Much new equipment was added to the curriculum of the girls' physical education program. The new apparatus included a mini tramp and a balance beam which the students looked forward to using. Miss Lenna B. Arnold, "Sis", was in charge of the girls' physical education program.

At the conclusion of both boys' and girls' physical education classes, there was a mad rush for the locker rooms and showers, where students relaxed after an hour of exercise and exhilarating sports.

School Year

Our world today is filled with a variety of many different and difficult languages, three of which were taught at Central. Latin, Spanish, and French gave students a chance to prove themselves efficient in a foreign language as well as English.

First year language students, were taught the fundamental sentence structure, and vocabulary. More advanced second and third year students probed into the very depths of the language and its culture.

Head of the language department, was Mr. Baughman, who also taught Spanish and French. A new addition to the staff was Miss Mack, who taught Latin, as well as English.

John H. Baughman—French, Spanish, BA, Indiana; MA, Wisconsin; NDEA, Florida

Centralites Busy in All City and State

Vernon Willis is grovin' to the tune during one of his exceptional solos in fifth period band.

Central's musicians closed out the 1969-70 year with a very busy curriculum. The band, directed by Mr. Marr, played at all home football and basketball games and participated in several contests and concerts. Those members of the band who were chosen to represent Central in the All City band were Joyce Flowers, Tina Kirk, Julius Kennedy, Paul Rogers, Duane Donahue, Sue Taylor, and Jeff Jacobs.

With a change of pace, Central's choir, directed by Mr. Wetzel department head, got into the swing of things as they took part in many concerts and contests. Members of the All City choir were Roberta Adams, Charlene Shroyer, Cathy Wilson, Lincoln Chapman, Terry Kreshman, Walter Garnett, John Beaver, Debbie Keppler, and Linda Yorgey. Members of the All State choir were Walter Garnett, Terry Kreshman, and Lincoln Chapman.

David Marr—Instrumental music; BS, Ohio; MA, Ball State.

William Wetzel—Vocal music; BA, Louisville; MA, Ball State.

Administration Guided

"Good morning, Central High School," answers Mrs. Keuneke, as she takes time out to answer the phone, in the main office.

Sitting in the guidance office Linda Mack patiently waits to talk to Mr. Tricolas concerning her S.A.T. scores.

As Central's principal Mr. H. Paul Spuller spends much of his time discussing school business over the telephone.

Although the principal and assistant principal have much to say as to the running of the school, much of the school problems and decisions are solved by the competent school board members. They are under the supervision of Superintendent Lester Grile.

Students Toward Goals

Guidance through the excursion of high school comes from the forty-six indispensable teachers and Central's administration. They lent a helping hand from goal to goal. Everyone needs to catch a star, and the faculty and administration acted as the stepping stones through "our" galaxy.

Leading the way was Principal Mr. H. Paul Spuller with help from Assistant Principal Miss Emma Adams. Doing a yeoman's job in the guidance department with the everyday problems were Mr. Richard Horstmeyer and Mrs. Patti Martone, Dean of Boys and Girls, respectively.

Aiding Central's students on their present and future decisions and problems, was the guidance office. Making the year a most successful one were the Class Counselors and Coordinators: Mr. Banet; Mr. Bienz; Mrs. Banks, also business director; Mr. Tricolas, guidance coordinator; and Mr. Schoeff, counselor and athletic director.

After semester break many students wish to have a schedule change, that's the job of assistant principal Miss Adams. She is shown here looking over a possible schedule change for Ricardo Bonner, while other students patiently wait in the outer office.

Mrs. Jeanne Farrell, cafeteria help, takes over the responsibility of the cash register during one of the lunch periods.

Functioning

Each day, the bustling kitchen at Central High School prepared hundreds of piping-hot lunches for students and faculty alike. The coordination of this difficult task was the responsibility of Mrs. Garmen. Aiding Mrs. Garmen were nine competent workers who were in charge of sanitation, diet, and produce used in each school lunch.

All workers were under the supervision of Mrs. Kay Feustel, who was in charge of all hot lunch programs in the Fort Wayne public school system.

Office work, an equally important task, was handled by the school secretaries. Office secretaries were Mrs. Kneueke, Mrs. Bolander, and Mrs. Best, who disposed of the large piles of correspondence, schedule changes, and enrollment materials.

Mrs. Nicoski, guidance office secretary, took care of the paper work and appointments for Miss Adams, Mr. Horstmeyer, Mrs. Martone, and the guidance counselors. Besides her regular daily work, she also aided students in filling out PSAT, SAT, and college applications.

Money, being an important factor in the operation of the school system, was the responsibility of Mrs. Ackley, school treasurer and athletic secretary.

Central The Center Of Activities

Even non-academic activities centered about the school.

There were extra-curricular groups for every interest.

Each could find his own niche,

His place to contribute,

An area in which to excel.

We turned into leaders—and followers;

We became interesting, well-rounded.

There was learning outside as well as in—side the classroom.

We were educated by doing.

Activities brought us to school early.

Sometimes, they made us stay late.

We even came back at night.

For some, activities enhanced the world of academia;

For others, school simply became more bearable;

They kept us all going.

Student Council:

Intra-School Communications Assisted

Communication between the administration of the school and the student body lay with the Central Student Council. The purpose of the Student Council was to suggest changes or adjustments in the present school policy. The Student Council also relayed the thoughts of the student body to the school officials and teachers.

From each home room, two students were chosen to represent that home room in the Student Council. Each member of Student Council must display leadership, consideration, and intelligence.

Each member must have shown ability to communicate with the faculty, the administrative officials, and the student body.

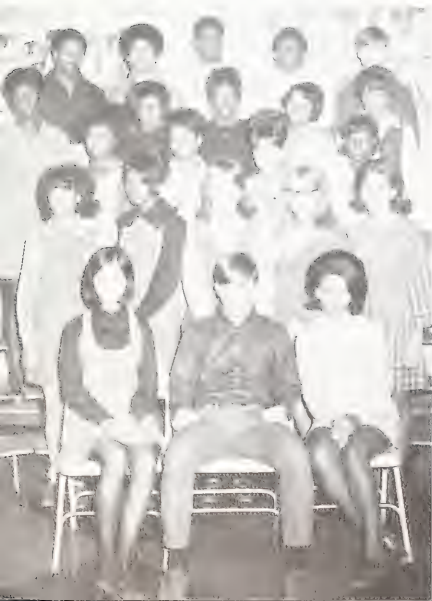

Working with the Student Council was Mr. Richard Horstmeyer and Mrs. Patti Martone. President of Student Council was Julius Kennedy.

An "on the move" group, the Student Council is involved in all phases of school policies and problems.

Choir:

Song Was Found to be A Means of Expression

First place senior soloists Walter Garnett and John Beaver practice for a contest.

In a time when people are expressing themselves through speeches, a select group of Centralites find that it is easier for them to express their ideas through music and song. The Central choir participated in many activities throughout the year. These activities ranged from private performances to competition in state and regional music contests.

The choir is composed of many smaller groups. The small male ensemble consisted of Joe Alvarez, John Beaver, Lincoln Chapman, Walter Garnett, and Terry Kreshman. The students in the small girls' ensemble were Roberta Adams, Gail Creager, Marie Miller, and Angela Steed. Several other students sang solos during the year. Many of the students were also in the large mixed ensemble group. In contests this year, the choir did better than it has done in the past several years with over fifty per cent of the entries getting first ratings.

The choir was under the capable direction of Mr. William Wetzel.

The concert choir is shown warming up their voices for practice. The choir performs for concerts and various affairs through the school year and is well known for their talent.

Central High School's top chorus group is known as the Swing Choir under the direction of Mr. William Wetzel. The students perform at various events during the year and are well known for their talent and hard work as shown in this photo.

Drama Club:

Curses and Traps Challenged Centralites

The Drama Club, which is open to all Central students, offers activities for every type of student interest from set construction, to make-up, costumes, lights, acting, directing, or others. The only qualifications for Drama Club are interest in dramatics and a desire to work hard and long hours preparing a production.

The plays which were presented this year were the junior play, "The Curse of an Aching Heart," or "Trapped in the Spider's Web," written by Herbert Swayne was presented on Friday, November 4, 1969. The senior play, "The Night is My Enemy," was presented on Friday, March 13, 1970.

Awards for outstanding drama students were presented at the spring picnic in May.

Drama Club, which is as old as Central, was advised by Mr. Delmar Proctor, who was the director of all the plays.

Many of the decorations that sprung up throughout the school during the year could be traced directly to the talented workings of the Central Art Club. Psychedelic posters, colorful pictures, and the beautifully decorated Christmas tree in the cafeteria were some of the many accomplishments of the Art Club.

In addition to decorations put up by the Art Club, members were involved in many diverse activities during the year. These included the Art Club dance, the annual Art Club picnic, museum trips, and demonstrations by local artists. Other projects sponsored by the Art Club were the Halloween dance and the Art Club Christmas party. At the end of the year, Art Club members received honors for their activities at Recognition Day.

The president of Art Club was Irma Williams; vice-president, Alfred Brownlee; secretary-treasurer, Lois Hatch.

The sponsor of Art Club this year was Mrs. Carolyn Wadlington.

Shown here is one of the many creative displays by the art club. Art club bulletin boards, as well as posters, and the Christmas tree during the holiday season do much throughout the year to make the entire school building more attractive.

GAA:

Again GAA Proved Most Popular

Debbie Waldrop concentrates very hard on putting the ball in the pocket for a strike.

As soon as the bell rang at the end of the school day, many girls rushed from all directions to get to the gymnasium. At the gym door there was a scramble to see who would be first to get dressed and onto the gym floor. These girls were members of the Girl's Athletic Association. Members of GAA learned how to stay physically fit, and enjoy themselves at the same time. These girls under the supervision of "Sis" Arnold met twice a week to participate in a vigorous program of athletics and tournaments. Volleyball, basketball, kinball, softball, bowling, tumbling, and swimming were some of the sports offered.

All GAA members looked forward to their annual Spring Banquet, where trophies were given out to individual senior girls who were outstanding in some particular field. New members were installed, and old officers replaced.

Before joining, the girls were required to have one hundred points. These points were acquired by participation in various GAA activities throughout the year.

The officers of GAA this year were Shirley Coats, president; Sue Taylor, vice president; Katheleen Felger, secretary; and Marilyn Word, pt. recorder.

Top Awards

Entertaining during halftime at home football and basketball games was only one of the many activities that the Central High School band was engaged in during the year. The band was also busy with presenting concerts before private organizations and other schools throughout the city. With the vocal music department, the band gave several concerts before its own student body.

Another activity of the band was competing in state and local instrumental music contests. Winning awards during the year were Tina Kirk, Sue Taylor, Jackie Pearson, Jeff Jacobs, Roy Kirk, in addition to many others.

The Central Band, one of the largest organizations at Central, was headed by Mr. David Marr. Under Mr. Marr's direction, the band once rated as one of the best produced by Central.

The band worked throughout the year with the cheerleaders and the twirlers, playing the accompanying music for the musical numbers of the group.

For its reward, the band was given a Christmas party during the holiday and a spring awards picnic before school was dismissed for the summer.

The athletic teams at Central were not only backed by the entire student body when they competed; they also had a group of energetic cheerleaders who were present at all varsity football and basketball games. Their duty was to instill enthusiasm among the students who attended the games.

The varsity cheerleaders this year were juniors and seniors; Shirley Coats, captain; Bridget Cannaday; Vernita Early; Elsa Perez, and Mary Scruggs.

The reserve cheerleaders who proved themselves very effective at all reserve games were sophomores; Rosiland Curry; Alma Chapman; Gail Eason; Beverly Hoskins, and Mary Perez.

Mr. Richard Levy was the coordinator of the cheerleaders and pep sessions. Cheerleaders that were chosen for the 1970-71 season were, Alma Chapman, Janice Tharp, Colleen Razor, Debbie Joyner, Debbie Waldrop, and Rosiland Curry.

Central's sparkling "Golden Girl," senior Sandra Craig, poses patiently for the Caldron photographer. Sandra's graceful and exciting performances were a regular feature of the halftime show at each home football and basketball game. A crowd favorite was her flaming baton act.

To a snappy cadence, a select group of Central girls marched with whirling batons before fans who came to watch the football and basketball contests. These young ladies were known as the Marching Tigerettes.

With the Tiger Band, the Marching Tigerettes entertained spectators at all home football and basketball games.

The marching Tigerettes for the 1969-70 year were: Tina Kirk, head majorette; Rosalyn Word, assistant head majorette; Wanell Hill, secretary. Sandra Craig was the '69-70 Central Girl.

The requirements for Tigerettes were coordination, rhythm, balance, and a warm smile. In addition, the girls chosen for this elite group were selected for their appearance and their willingness to work together. Try-outs were held in the spring of the year.

Mathematicians Welcomed Guest Talks

Math Club, the oldest existing club at Central, meets on the second Tuesday of every month after school. At every meeting the members are encouraged to participate in mathematical quizzes. Outside speakers are invited to speak about the mathematical in the field they are employed in.

To join the Math Club, all members must show an interest and understanding of the importance of math. They must have completed a least two years of high school math which includes algebra and plane geometry. The highlights of the Math Club's activities are a fund-raising bake sale and the annual spring picnic in which all club members participate.

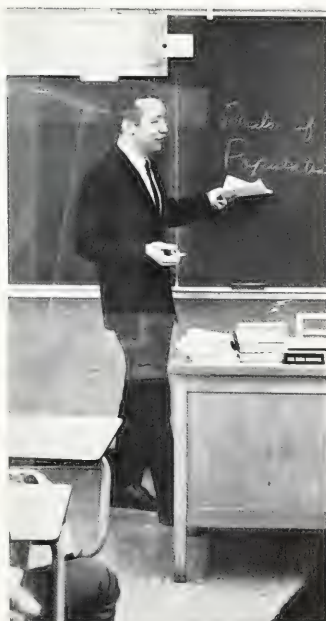

President of the Math Club this year was Carol Ware, senior; the secretary was Brenda Moore, senior; and treasurer was Doris Phillips, senior.

Miss Plummanns was the sponsor of the Math Club this year.

Booster Club:

Boosters Bolstered CHS Spirit

"Hot dogs, Steaming hot dogs for sale." If not said aloud, these words flashed continually in the minds of the fans at Central's varsity basketball and football games. Hundreds of hungry and thirsty spectators at the Tiger home competition jammed the concession stand during half-time intermission. These concession stands were faithfully attended by members of Central High School's Booster Club.

The Booster Club is an organization made up of individuals who work together for one cause—to support the school. In addition to working the concession stands, they contribute much of the money they make to worthy school organizations which need financial help. This year the Booster Club, among other things, assisted the cheerleaders in purchasing new uniforms.

Other projects for the year included an all-school dance, a spring picnic, and all-school bus trips to varsity games away from home. Sponsors of the organization were Mr. Richardville, Mr. McCory, Mr. Flohr, and Miss Roberts. All of Central could be proud of the Booster Club and its contribution to school spirit at Central High School—among both students and alumni.

Senior officers this year were Don Banks, president; Dianne Tharp, vice-president; Shirlene Davis, treasurer; and Alice Castor, secretary.

Larry Potts and Alice Castor were also elected to the regional officers of vice president and secretary, respectively. Larry also had the opportunity to attend the Central Region Leadership Conference in Lincoln, Nebraska. Larry also attended the National Leadership Conference in Minnesota.

The responsibility for the publication of the Central yearbook, the CALDRON, and the school's newspaper, the SPOTLIGHT rests with the Central publication's office. Under the direction of Miss Judy Boyd, the publication's staff collected all the school news for the SPOTLIGHT as well as summarizing the events of the entire year for the CALDRON.

In preparation for the hard work that lay ahead of them, members of the publications staff attended summer sessions at Ball State University where they were taught the fundamentals of publishing a newspaper and a yearbook. The students who attended were Craig Ellis, Sue Taylor, Frank Yancey, Charmaine McCowan, and Idella Carter.

The editor-in-chief of the CALDRON was Craig Ellis. The editor-in-chief of the SPOTLIGHT was Alma Chapman.

PTA:

Central Parent, Teachers Sponsor Annual Potluck

A group of interested parents who are deeply concerned with the welfare of Central High School is the Parents Teachers Association. Members of the PTA planned study groups to decide upon the proper policies the school must follow.

The PTA sponsored many events where the parents, the faculty, the administrative personnel, and the student body could become acquainted with each of the other factions of the school. Potluck suppers, getting acquainted meetings, record hops and PTA banquets were some of the many events put on by the Parent Teacher Association. Discussion groups with student speakers and along with many field trips within the city school systems supplemented the PTA programs.

PTA president was Mrs. Daniel Purdue, secretary was Mrs. Eddie Scott, and treasurer was Mr. Paul Bienz.

Service Workers Gave Up Free Time

Each day, a group of energetic students devote a portion of their time at school to aid the teachers and counselors. The service club of Central High School is one made entirely of volunteers who feel that their services may be helpful to the school.

The duties of Service Club range from running errands for the Principal's office to aiding in instructing physical education classes. Students who volunteer for service club must exhibit an outstanding character as well as maintain high grades.

Those students which have given extraordinary service to the school are honored at the end of the year with the presentation of gold and silver service pins. They are chosen because of their fine school record of scholarship, character, ability to get along with others and leadership.

To become a member of the Service Club a student must get a teachers recommendation to be accepted. The sponsor of the Service Club this year is our attendance officer and study hall teacher, Mrs. Mary Elin Allen.

Filing attendance reports for Mrs. Allen, Anita Alderfer does it as one of her many jobs as a service worker.

Renee Davis is one of many Centralites who donate their valuable study hall to work for the busy school secretaries.

V.I.C.A.:

V.I.C.A. Was Organized This Year

A new and active club which just began functioning at Central this year was the Central's chapter of the Vocational Industrial Cooperatives of America. V.I.C.A. was originated for the purpose of training its members through on-the-job occupational experience. In addition to the valuable training, V.I.C.A. members received high school credit and also wages. Upon graduation, V.I.C.A. students were prepared to enter the world of industrial work.

V.I.C.A. also sponsored social activities. An Employer-Employee Appreciation Seminar was held for all V.I.C.A. students and their employers. At the end of the year, a banquet honored the students who had attained honors during the year.

President of V.I.C.A. was Michael Tracy; Bob Bertholf was president; Charles Quinn, secretary; and Russell Matteson, secretary. Mr. Paul Piepenbrink, coordinator of the ICT program, advised the club which operated in cooperation with the Industrial Cooperative at Central.

Central— The Center Of Athletics

Central was the hub of community athletics;

It was the point around which a wide spectrum of sports revolved.

Athletes remembering grueling practices.

The stiff competition of tryouts,

And the heartbreaking final cuts.

But these were the flames

Which refined the raw material.

Spectators recall jumping,

And clapping, and screaming, and cheering,

Glowing also in the spotlight of success,

And weeping, too, in the shadow of defeat.

The spectators and the athletes had formed an empathy.

We felt for each other—

We had become a "team."

1969 Gridiron Season Was Pride of Doerffler's Career

Central's 1969 gridiron season was greatest spectacle of hustle, pride, and desire since Mr. Buzz Doerffler became its head mentor three years ago. The Bengals achieved an 8-1 record, the best record Central has had since 1949. Because of teamwork and spirit, combined with the leadership of the seventeen seniors, who were an invaluable asset to the squad, the Tigers were able to accomplish such a feat.

The Blue and White placed nine men on the All-City ranks. Neil Brabson, half-back; Alvin Wheaton, linebacker; Dan Taylor, defensive safety; Hollis Hayden, defensive halfback; and Robert Love, defensive end were all on the first team. Brabson and Taylor were also on the All-State Honorable Mention List. Kim Wallace and Julius Kennedy were center and quarterback, respectively, on the second All-City team. Defensive tackles Robert Gatewood and Clearance Bullock made the second team also.

It was mainly a comeback story in most games for the small but swiftly potent team. Seven times they were faced with a do-or-die situation, and each time they met the challenge admirably. The Bengals proved themselves; their size did not hinder them from securing a respectable second place in the city race, losing only to the city Champ Bishop Luers.

Linebacker Kirk Bell (64) and All-City defensive end Robert Love (82), assist an unidentified teammate crush the Cadet ball carrier's vain attempt to gain more yardage.

Getting together after the pre-game warm-up exercises, the eager Tigers hide coach Doerffler in their huddle and heed his final instructions before they begin to claw away at their opponent.

Fullback Dan Taylor's hope to "break loose" ended when he lost his footing on the water-logged field and the Central Catholic safety pounced on him to defeat the bulldozing fullback's goal.

Returning Thinclads Brighten Outlook

Central's 1969 cross country team sported its best record in the past five years. Against some of the top competition offered in Indiana, the Tigers tallied a record of five wins and ten defeats.

This improvement could best be explained by diligent effort in practices and an omnipresent team spirit. The tigers developed team pride and a desire to win. Their effervescent enthusiasm enabled them to take the workout of running.

The Tigers' hopes for a good showing in the sectional were squelched by the injury and absence of two of the top runners on the team. Coach Peterson is optimistic about the 1970 season with only two graduating seniors leaving the team, Jim Bennett and Duane Donahue, who were elected co-captains of the team by their fellow harriers.

Building Season Marked by 0-10

When looking Central's tennis records one might think that history repeats itself. This year the Tiger Racquetmen compiled a 0-10 record; last year Central posted a 0-12 season. Coach McCory definitely stated that history will not repeat itself next season. He confidentially relinquished that the loss of two graduating lettermen, Craig Ellis and Paul Louie, will be more than compensated by the upcoming underclassmen.

"This squad was one of the finest I have ever coached; and, because of their attitude, they made a frustrating season a bit more bearable," was coach McCory's final praise of the 1969 team.

Tigers Netted 1970 Sectional II Title

Completing another successful round-ball season, Coach Dille's Tigers finished the regular schedule and tournament play with an 18-6 slate. Beginning the season with an exciting double-overtime loss to North Side, the Dillemen finished with a flourish by defeating highly-ranked Huntington at Huntington and then returning to capture the Fort Wayne Sectional Two title two weeks later.

In late February, the Tigers won the Fort Wayne Sectional Two title by knocking-off Bishop Luers in the first contest and then crushing Concordia in the championship game. The following week they defeated Lakeland to advance to the regional finals. In the championship game against North Side, Central's hopes for a regional victory were dimmed, as the Redskins handed the Tigers their sixth loss and closed out their season just as they had begun it.

Other major accomplishments by the Tigers during the year were the winning of the Greenwood Holiday Tournament, and the placing of the two lettermen on the All-City basketball team. The lettermen were senior center Clyde Dickey and junior guard Larry Harris.

Dickey paced all the Tiger scorers and rebounders with 20.63 and 16.23 averages respectively. Harris was second in scoring with a 13.25 average and first in assists, total 129 for the season.

Besides this year's two All-City players, the team was anchored by lettermen Louis Simmons and Julius Kennedy. Those lettering for the first time in basketball were Larry Bright, Terry Burt, Tyrone Bishop, Derrick Dufor and Lafayette Jordan.

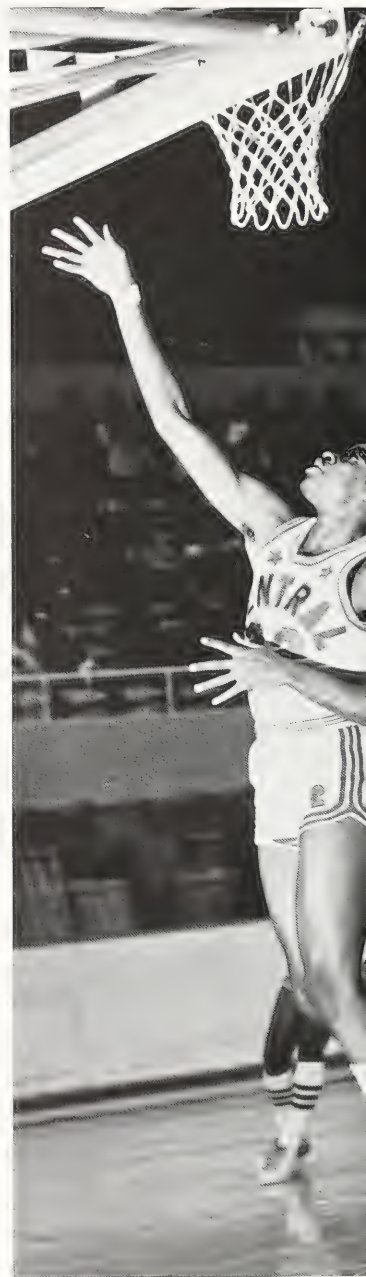

The team members on this year's squad were seniors: Cardell Collins, Clyde Dickey, Julius Kennedy and Louis Simmons; and juniors: Tyrone Bishop, Larry Bright, Terry Burt, Derrick Dufor, John Dunbar, Lafayette Jordan, Larry Harris and Gene Myatt. Ron Barnes was the only sophomore.

Aiding Coach Bob Dille in shaping these young men into a winning team were assistant coaches Kip Ormerod and Dan Howe. Working as student managers were Joe Alvarez, head manager, and his assistants Larry McCague and Mike Helvie. Bruce James was the statistician.

Under the leadership of Coach Dan Howe and Coach Kip Ormerod, the reserve squad got a taste of actual high school basketball action. The year's games prepared the reserve players for varsity play next year. Many varsity players played with the reserve team to gain more basketball experience.

In tournament action, the Tigers were runner-up in the Holiday Tournament, being nipped by North Side for the championship trophy.

The reserve squad worked especially hard on fundamentals, preparing themselves to play some of the top reserve teams in the state.

Rounding out a respectable 5-6-1 season, the Central wrestling team sent two representatives to the state finals. Rotha Early, in the 98-pound category, and Roger Turner, in the 145-pound class, both won third place honors in the state finals. Both young men remained undefeated during the regular season while the latter was tied once.

Becoming stronger with each meet, the Tiger grapplers, under the coaching of Mr. Warren Eviston, finished the season as a real city contender. They tied unbeaten city champs Snider, and then proceeded to place second in both sectional and regional meets. Sectional winners were Rotha Early, Roger Turner, Ken Van Pelt in the 127-pound class, and George McGowan in the heavyweight division. Dan Taylor, last year's 180-pound sectional winner, also had a fine season, defeating eleven foes while yielding only to one.

Sophomore Mike Helvie goes over the bar at 5 ft. 2 in. while warming up before Central's first outdoor meet against Elmhurst and Snider begins. Helvie also ran reserve 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, and the low hurdles.

Although the Tiger cindermen had a frustrating campaign in 1969, they showed much potential. Most of the Tigers' difficulties resulted from the limited size of the team. Coaches Schneider, Ormerod, and Peterson were baffled by the small turnout.

The trackmen did show many signs of greatness: lightning fast sprinters, determined distance runners, and rapidly-improving men in the field events. Any hopes for a winning season, however, were squelched by the lack of depth.

The future looks bright for the Tigers, who lost only three men through graduation. With experience and better participation, next year promises many triumphant moments.

Receiving the baton from John Early, who is finishing the third leg, Neil Brabson accelerates quickly to increase the slim Central lead and pick up momentum for his anchor leg in the mile relay race at the annual North Side Relays.

New Golf Coach Headed Young Tiger Linksmen

Central's 1969 golf team found a new perspective as Mr. Robert Dornte became its new head coach. Experiencing his first year as head coach, he was faced with a young team comprised of six sophomores: Earl Alderfer, Robert Gongwer, Walter Slack, Robert Sitler, Dave Howard, and Mitchell Rice; two juniors: Jeff Jacobs and Alan Vandersmissen; and one senior: Les Howard.

The young team displayed great balance throughout all of its meets. Jeff Jacobs paced the Tiger Linksmen by averaging a 42.55 over a nine-hole course for the nine-meet season. He reached his pinnacle at the Central-Luers-Dwenger meet when he shot a career high of 36 and won medalist honors.

The averages of the other team members are as follows: Earl Alderfer 47.88, Alan Vandersmissen 48.22, Robert Gongwer 48.57, Walter Slack 50.66, Ron Sitcler 51.64, Les Howard 52.56, Dave Howard 53.25, and Mitchell Rice 60.88.

Central— A Meeting Of Peoples

Central High School was a gathering place for personalities;
A meeting grounds of East and West.
It was a place where Black and White studied together;
And as they did, they learned the lesson of brotherhood.
In the years together
We pried beneath exteriors to find the real.
We formed permanent friendships.
The type that may be separated in physical distance,
But are always next door in the heart.
Never again will these same chemicals be mixed
With the catalyst of Central.
The reaction will never be the same,
For these friends and fellow students
Will only be together again in memory.

Sophomores Adjusted to High School

The energetic sophomore class of Central High School this year found the many pleasures that this school had to offer. The adjustment to the pressures and rigor of high school life came easily for this large young class. They quickly found an interest in some of the many clubs at Central. The enthusiasm of the pep sessions and football and basketball games immediately caught their fancy.

The leadership of the sophomore class fell upon the shoulders of Algerine Hicks, president; Katie Johnson, vice president; and Pat Shade, secretary.

The sophomores added the impetus for the cheerblock for this year. They arrayed the gym with colorful decoration supplied sound team support.

On May 29, sophomores who had shown achievement in scholarship, athletics, or leadership were given awards at the annual Sophomore Recognition Day.

There's nothing like a little friendly competition among cheerleaders . . . especially when Central's ahead. Central and C.C. cheerleaders take a minute to socialize during the Central—C.C. game at South Side's field. The Tiger's surprised the Fighting Irish, a traditional rival, and slipped pass them, 8-7.

Juniors, Busiest Class at Central

The busiest class at Central this year was the junior class. The junior class was active in athletics, theatrical productions, and the Junior Prom.

In the successful football and basketball seasons, the lineups were constantly dominated by junior players. Juniors Larry Harris, Lafayette Jordan, Larry Bright, and Terry Burt spearheaded the tournament-winning Tiger basketball team. The festive Junior Prom was a success, combining the inventiveness of the junior class leaders with decades of old customs of the Prom.

Anticipating the near future, the juniors attended vocational seminars, took college entrance tests, and received counseling from the guidance personnel at Central. Other juniors were looking forward to the day that they would graduate from Central by inquiring into different colleges and vocations.

Another important event that involved the junior class was the Junior Play, "The Curse of An Aching Heart." Many juniors played crucial parts in the production and presentation of the play.

Providing the leadership for the junior class this year was Lavina Stewart, president; Earl Alderfer, vice-president; and Barbara Williams, secretary. They presided over the Junior Congress which decided on the policies that the juniors would follow throughout the year.

Helping the junior class through this busy year were Mrs. Natalie Hewes and Mr. Dan Howe. Class counselor was Mr. Bienz.

Seniors Looked Forward to Graduation

Their final year at Central has been both challenging as well as rewarding for the senior class. Under president Jacqueline Pearson, the senior class prepared themselves for the time when graduation day would be a reality.

The busy senior class was involved in many activities throughout the year. Job fairs, career seminars and college interviews were only some of the many events which seniors found themselves attending.

With the assistance of vice-president James Pavlou and secretary Sandra Craig, the senior class sponsored the Senior Tea and the Senior Reception. The most important event for the seniors, however, was graduation. This day was the culmination of four years of hard work.

Scholastically, the senior class was led by Paul Louie, valedictorian; and Nilsa Roman, salutatorian. Chosen Best Boy and Girl Citizens were Paul Louie and Shirley Coats.

The senior faculty sponsors were Mr. McFadden and Mrs. Sawin. Senior guidance counselor was Mr. Tricolas.

Senior class officers Sandra Craig, secretary; Jim Pavlou, vice president; and Jackie Pearson, president, pose with the Central tiger mascot. These three, along with the senior congress, spent a busy term with all the preparations for commencement activities.

Senior student council member Mark Reed records the senior progress in the can drive.

MARTIN LUTHER KING LIVING MEMORIAL INC.

MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR. had a dream:

"I have a dream that my four children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character . . .

(I have a dream that) we will be able to speed up that day when all of God's children black and white men, Jews and Gentiles, Protestants and Catholics, will be able to join hands and sing - 'Free at Last! Free at Last! Thank God Almighty, we are free at last!'"

But Dr. King was more than a dreamer; he was a doer. He was acting on his lofty dream of bringing people together, rich and poor, black and white, young and old when he was cut down by an assassin's bullet.

His grand vision is shared by men of good will everywhere. Fort Wayne citizens yearn to be about this task of bringing people together. Therefore The Martin Luther King Living Memorial has been born to proclaim his dream and to make it come true through concerted community action.

We're Glad It's Over, But Not Sorry It Began

As June draws to the end our school year, March draws to the end our yearbook. Looking back over the year and the "missing pictures" that were always missing around deadlines, makes us wonder how we made it.

At Ball State University Summer Journalism Workshop Craig Ellis, Sue Taylor, and Frank Yancey, Jr., began the preliminary planning for the book. Under our student adviser, Mr. Donald Hines, we learned to capture the spirit of the high in copy and pictures.

We would like to thank the teachers for their understanding, support, and encouragement, which did much to help the progress of the book.

We would especially like to thank Mr. Robert Heintzelman, Newsfoto Yearbook Consultant, for his diligent work in assisting us with layouts and some of our photography. If it had not been for his constant help and guidance, the yearbook might not have been finished.

Our album section would have not been complete without the services of Mr. Paul Watters (senior portraits) and Interstate Studios (underclass portraits).

Our deepest thanks goes to Miss Judith Boyd. We would like to say "Right On," Miss Boyd and "Good-bye." Miss Boyd will be married in June and will move to Tallahassee, Florida, where she will advise publications.
